Waterproof backing | Super absorption fibre | Non-woven layer | Foam layer | Silicone adhesive

The mx Health Silicone Foam Dressing is designed with a soft silicone layer that creates a non-adherent interface between the dressing and the wound bed. This prevents the dressing from sticking to the wound, minimising pain and trauma during dressing changes, especially for patients with sensitive or fragile skin.

The hydrophobic quality of the silicone used in the dressing allows the product to form a gentle yet effective seal around the wound, adhering securely to the surrounding skin without interacting with the wound bed.

The dressing remains securely in place, providing a protective barrier that shields the wound from external contaminants such as bacteria, while allowing the wound to breathe and heal naturally.

MYOFASCIAL RELEASE TOOL

BEVELLED EDGES WITH MULTIPLE SHAPES

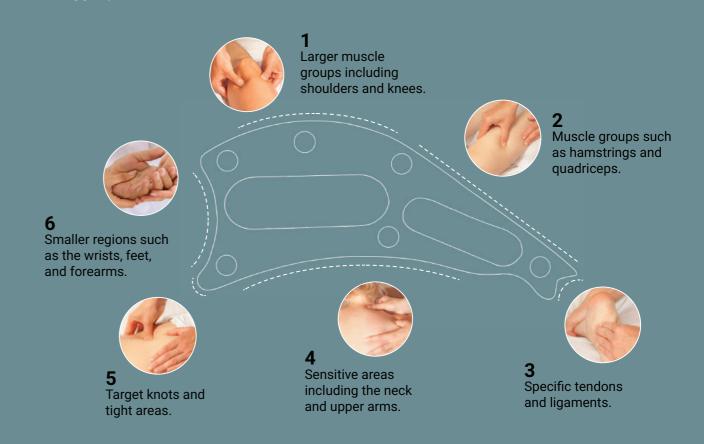

DESIGNED TO PROVIDE MUSCLE PAIN RELIEF AND IMPROVED MOBILITY

The Myofascial Release Tool is expertly designed to target various areas of the body, addressing specific muscle groups to provide unparalleled relief from muscle pain while enhancing range of motion. With its uniquely contoured sections, this tool is engineered with the principles of myofascial in mind, applying precision pressure to the fascia – the connective tissue surrounding the muscles – to alleviate discomfort and increase mobility.

Featuring full hand and finger grip holes for ease of use and optimal control, this tool stands as a trusted choice for physiotherapists, chiropractors, and massage therapists. Excelling in instrument-assisted soft tissue mobilisation (IASTM), the Myofascial Release Tool boasts a stainless-steel design with bevelled edges to penetrate deeply into muscles to mobilise restricted fascia and release myofascial trigger points.

thermX sets the standard for excellence with its advanced range of thermal therapy solutions, meticulously engineered to relieve pain assorted with various injuries.

Combining the benefits of thermotherapy and cryotherapy, thermX products offer a holistic approach to pain management, regeneration, and recovery, making the range a trusted choice for effective therapeutic care.

therm =

Thermotherapy (heat therapy) is a procedure that involves the application of superficial heat to alleviate muscle stiffness, chronic pain and tension, as well as promote increased blood circulation to speed up recovery. Heat therapy can be used multiple times a day if needed.

Cryotherapy (cold therapy) involves the use of extreme cold to reduce swelling, inflammation, and ease acute pain after an injury or surgery. Cold therapy can be used multiple times a day during the initial stages of an injury or to manage swelling and inflammation.

The Opulab Emergency Burn Care Dressing represents a pinnacle in advanced wound care technology, meticulously designed to address the multifaceted needs of burn treatment. Impregnated with a specialised hydrogel formulation, the dressing offers immediate pain relief, optimises healing conditions, and provides robust protection against secondary complications such as infection. Upon application, the hydrogel formulation absorbs excess heat from the burn site, creating an instant cooling effect that alleviates discomfort while stabilising damaged tissue. The hydrogel layer ensures that the wound remains adequately hydrated, fostering an environment that is conducive to epithelial regeneration, while significantly reducing recovery times. This combination of soothing relief and accelerated healing makes the Opulab Emergency Burn Care Dressing indispensable for treating a variety of burn injuries, including first-degree burns, second-degree burns, and scalds.
